PROTEST AGAINST RECEPTION TO GENERAL HALLER IN BOSTON

The Jewish Leader Sends Open Letter to Mayor Curley Exposing Record of General in Command of Poles Recruited in America

Boston (J.T.A.)—In an open letter addressed to Mayor Curley, "The Jewish Leader," a local newspaper, charges that General Josef Haller, Polish Commander-in-Chief, who is soon to visit this city, is a notorious anti-Semite, having been proved guilty of numerous atrocities against the Jews of Poland, and as such is not fit to be received as an official guest of the city of Boston.

The letter quotes official Polish documents to prove that General Haller was guilty of perpetrating excesses upon Jews, and says that any official recognition accorded to the General would be an affront to the Jews of this city as well as all other decent and fair-minded citizens.

Addressed to the Mayor, the letter reads as follows:

"It has been reported that General Josef Haller, the Polish military Commander-in-Chief who has been invited to this country by the American Legion, is to be the guest of this city. We wish to express our deep sense of regret that the city should sponsor the visit of this notorious General and we earnestly request that you deny to General Haller any official reception or honors that may in any way be construed as a manifestation of esteem toward him on the part of the City of Boston.

"Such honors should be reserved for men and women of distinction, for such as have earned universal fame and the admiration of their fellowmen. General Haller cannot by any stretch of imagination be included in this category. Nothing that he has done entitles him to distinction and recognition, but on the other hand, what he has done entitles him to a niche in the Hall of Hamans.

"General Haller is condemned in the eyes of the civilized world as the man who is guilty of those bloody outrages against the Jewish population in Poland, which occasioned the world-wide protest in 1919. His soldiers, the notorious 'Hallerites,' who, strange to say, were legionnaires brought from America, committed the most dastardly crimes against innocent and defenseless men and women, whose sons were dying on the battlefields for the sake of Poland's liberty. General Haller was branded as a criminal by his own government."

"Captain Peter Wright, a member of the British Mission to Poland, in his report to the British Government in 1920, made the following statement regarding anti-Jewish excesses in Poland:

> The worst offenders are soldiers, and the worst soldiers in this respect are those of General Haller's army, which was largely recruited in America."

Review Junior Section

Dear Cousin Judith:

I was reading your fine section in the Review last week, and thought it was very fine, and just the thing I was waiting for. You know life is very quiet here in St. Sauterne, and there is nothing doing, so anything for a change is welcome.

I am in the second to last class in school and I am eleven years old. My chief pleasure is reading. I think it is a fine thing. My mother sends me good books from Montreal. I just finished Elinor Glynn's book, "Three Weeks." I thought it was fine. I am now starting "Jürgen" by Cabell. Judging by the beginning, it is fine.

I will write you again next week, but now I have to study, so as to finish school here, and go to high school in Montreal. Then I will be able to visit you. Won't that be fine.

Your loving Cousin,
"Country Mouse."

It would be nice to have you visit me, Country Mouse—and I promise you I would try to be more considerate to you than was the City Mouse of the Old Fable. I think you will enjoy attending the High School here. There are some really fine books in the library. I imagine you will spend many hours browsing among the shelves. Have you read any of L. Montgomery's books. I think you'll find them more interesting than "Jurgen." Do write again—so that by the time you really come to Montreal, we'll be good friends!

Cousin Judith.

"HOPE"

There is a story in rabbinical literature of a wealthy miser who in a moment of generous impulse, resolved to render financial help—but only to that man who abandoned absolutely all hope of ever succeeding in this world. Unable to find such a despondent human being in his own city, the miser travelled from place to place in search of one from whom all hope had fled. After long wanderings, he chanced one night to stumble upon a dark object lying in the street. The miser turned it over and beheld one of the most pathetic and horrible sights that had ever met human eyes. The object proved to be a man, his miserable body emaciated with hunger and stricken with disease.

"At last, my long search has been rewarded," thought the miser; so stooping over the almost lifeless form, he said, "Here man, take this gold; for I have promised to give to him from whom all hope has fled."

"Thanks for your offer," faintly moaned the afflicted man. "But you must bestow your money elsewhere; for with God's help I shall yet rise and do my part of the world's work."

Astounded the miser drew back, and set out again on his fruitless search. Years passed and still he could find no one to accept help on the condition imposed. At last he returned home and was advised to bury his money in a cemetery, for he would find that from the dead alone all hope had departed. This advice he followed.

As time rolled by he began gradually to lose his skill in driving close-fisted bargains, until his own income was so diminished that he was reduced to want. He then bethought himself of his buried treasure and hastened to the cemetery to dig it up. A watchman discovered him at work. The miser tried to explain but the watchman would not believe so incredible a story, and immediately haled the poor fellow before the chief magistrate of the land, on the charge that he had been caught [illegible] the dead.

be himself had buried the gold in the cemetery and pleaded with the judge to believe his words.

"I do believe your story, O wretched creature," the judge replied. "And I now dismiss the charge against you. I know that the strange tale that you tell is true, for the man against whom thou didst stumble in the street, and from whom thou didst think all hope had fled was none other than myself."

This literary gem, a "short essay on frogs," by a young immigrant from Norway, is quoted from the "Bulletin" of the Chicago Board of Education:

"What a wonderful bird the frog are! When he stand he sit, almost. When he hop he fly, almost. He ain't got no sense, hardly. He ain't got no tail hardly, either, when he sit he sit on what he ain't got, almost."

Thanks Dan, for the contributions. Here's your chance to show what you can do in the way of writing an interesting letter. Come, join our Competition throng. This is an invitation.

Cousin David.

ZIONISTS RESENT ARABS ON EQUAL FOOTING WITH JEWS

London, (J.T.A.)—The Actions Committee of the Zionist Organization at its concluding session Wednesday night, unanimously adopted a resolution deploring the attempt made by the British Government to place the Arabs in Palestine on an equal footing with the Jews through the establishment and recognition of an Arab Agency.

This, the principal question before the meeting, occupied the members throughout all of the committee's sessions stretching over four days.

The resolution declares that Zionists appreciate the efforts of the British Government to introduce harmony between the Jews and Arabs of Palestine. The Zionists voiced the conviction, however, that harmony can be best attained by the complete realization of the Balfour Declaration. Although the rejection by the Arabs of the Agency proposal "deprives the offer of its value," the Zionists find the attempt to place the Arab [illegible]

Dr. Weizmann, in closing the session expressed his complete satisfaction with the "earnest and deliberate nature" of the protracted debate.

With regard to the extension of the Jewish Agency, the scheme proposed on behalf of the executive by Dr. Feiwel, providing for the co-operating of representatives of the Zionists, Keren Hayesod and of other representatives of important Jewish organizations, was adopted.

A total of about $50,000 was contributed for the building by the late Zionist and philanthropist, and it is understood to be Mrs. Schweitzer's wish to proceed without delay with

A FREE JEWISH PLATFORM

The storm which broke over the head of Israel Zangwill after the address which has now become notorious, if not famous, and which he delivered at Carnegie Hall before the Jewish Congress, has not yet subsided. Louis Marshall, concerning whom Zangwill wittily remarked that "American Jewry is under martial law," has had his ire aroused because Zangwill urged the Jews to pool their votes in political campaigns against such common adversaries as Henry Ford, the K.K.K., and others, when these seek political office.

As a matter of fact, Mr. Marshall misunderstood Zangwill, who plainly stated that the Jews in democratic countries could only hope to survive as a religious group: that "golus" nationalism would not be tolerated in America. Zangwill lamented the fact that the Jewish citizens might be forced to demonstrate their antagonism against anti-Semites such as Ford and the Klan by voting against them when they tried to obtain control of the offices of government, and that in this event the Jewish position would be compelled to record itself in the form of a solid opposition. It is unfortunate that Zangwill should lay himself open to criticism because of the way in which he expresses himself, rather than by the ideas he wishes to convey. We feel certain that Zangwill who is a believer in the "melting pot," is not in favor of a "Jewish vote" in the sense that Jews should record their vote as an organized political body on all political issues. Zangwill realizes that there is no recognized and established Jewish hierarchy, religious or otherwise, that can commandeer the Jews to vote as a body. Zangwill has every reason to know how intense is the individuality of the Jew and how obstreperous he is when it comes to taking orders. We can only conceive of the possibilities of a united Jewish vote in a case where an anti-Semitic political movement would be organized for the avowed purposes of humiliating and destroying the Jews. Under such circumstances the Jew would be justified in casting a solid vote against such an un-American and undemocratic movement. In so doing the Jew would be acting as a true American. It is this message which Zangwill endeavored to convey and it is unfortunate that his meaning was misconstrued by such a man as Mr. Marshall.

Of an even more serious character than the criticism of Mr. Marshall is the criticism of Israel Zangwill, expressed in the letter by Mr. Samuel Untermyer and addressed to Mr. Nathan Strauss, the Hon. President of the Jewish Congress. Mr. Untermyer is a lawyer of excellent repute and ability. He is a leader at the bar in his country, prominence as the president of the Keren Hayesod in the United States. Latterly, too, he accepted the vice-presidency of the American Jewish Congress. In his letter to Nathan Strauss he says: "After mature reflection I feel that it is my right and duty as president of the Keren Hayesod to resign as vice-president, director and member of the American Jewish Congress, as a protest against its action in permitting the use of its platform for the destructive and ill-balanced diatribe delivered by Mr. Zangwill against the Palestine movement under the auspices of the Congress."

The letter, which fills three newspaper columns, is a bitter attack on Israel Zangwill, couched in language that redounds in phrases such as these, "reckless, irresponsible and destructive." Untermyer declares Zangwill's policy to be "true to all traditions of opera bouffe statesmanship." He accuses Zangwill "of dealing with the Arabs in peurile pseudo-artfulness." The letter denies that Zangwill is a Jewish leader and asserts that he has no following. Zangwill is described as "a prince of intellectual jugglers," and his address as "a befuddled and befuddling lubrication."

Untermyer, being of mature age and free by birth, living in a country where freedom of speech is sometimes permitted, has, of course, a right to say what he pleases about Mr. Zangwill and to characterize his speech in the way that he has; yet, though he possesses this right, it is still an open question whether his criticism is justifiable and correct. One thing is certain, that Mr. Untermeyer, though he is an excellent lawyer, is not to be compared to Israel Zangwill in knowledge of the Jewish problem and the Jewish people. Zangwill has given his whole life to a study of Jewish culture and the Jewish question. He is a mature scholar in this field, whilst Mr. Untermeyer is a novice at things Jewish. We appreciate the need which the Zionist movement has of featuring as the nominal head of the Keren Hayesod the name of some well-known figure. The name of Mr. Untermyer gives to the Keren Hayesod prestige in certain quarters where Zionism is not known, or would be otherwise ignored. But what we resent is that Mr. Untermyer has taken on himself the right of becoming the Zionist theoretician and thinker and "defender of the faith," as it were. We who are Zionists concede the absolute need of refuting Mr. Zangwill's statements on Zionism, but what we cannot understand is why Mr. Untermyer, just because he is the nominal president of the Keren Hayesod, should be chosen to make the defence. Untermyer is no match for Zangwill in a debate on Zionism, and no one knows this better than we Zionists. As a result, Mr. Untermyer's attack on Zangwill reveals the writer's helplessness and ignorance of the elements involved in this case. It is the weakest, lamest and most unsatisfactory brief which Mr. Untermyer has probably ever written.

There is another aspect of Mr. Untermeyer's letter which is even more unfortunate, and that is his resignation from the offices which he held in the Jewish Congress because the Congress offered Mr. Zangwill a platform for the free expression of his views. Are we to surmise from Mr. Untermyer's letter, that the platform of the Jewish Congress is not a free platform for the frank and fearless expression of views by responsible people on the Jewish question? If it is not this sort of a platform, what else is it? We were led to believe by everything that the Congress published that the Congress strove to be representative of all shades of Jewish public opinion; that it wished to have delegates from all parties in Jewry. Unfortunately it did not succeed in its aims. Many sections of Jewry kept aloof from the Congress. This did not, however, invalidate the big, broad principles on which the Congress was founded and its platform established. We know of no other platform more suitable for Mr. Zangwill to express himself than on the platform of the Jewish Congress. For weeks the Congress advertised that Zangwill was coming with a message for all Jewry. Zangwill is certainly one of the best known Jews in the world to-day, and his contributions to Jewish life merited for him a hearing, even if he had insisted on an opportunity to be heard. As a matter of fact, the shoe is on the other foot. Zangwill was induced after much persuasion to come to America and the Jewish Congress, and though Mr. Untermyer, as an executive of the Congress, objected to inviting Mr. Zangwill, the fact that he abided by the decision of the majority of his colleagues on the executive committee and did not resign before Mr. Zangwill came, should have led him to be broad enough to stand by the organization regardless of the fact that Mr. Zangwill's views of Zionism do not accord with his own. We are happy to state that the Congress passed resolutions which rejected Mr. Zangwill's views on Zionism. This was sufficient rebuke for Mr. Zangwill. To add insult to injury, which Mr. Untermyer's letter does, is ungracious.

the insinuation that unless a man has something flattering to say about the Jews, or Zionism, or unless he endorses the causes with which Mr. Untermyer is connected, he has no place on the Jewish Congress platform. If this is so, then the Jewish Congress might as well admit that it is just a camouflage for the Zionist organization. If that is the case, why the hokus-pokus of inviting Jewish representatives of all shades and opinions to attend its sessions and become its members? We are rather inclined to the view that the Congress was sincere in its platform expressions, and that Mr. Untermyer misunderstood the principles of freedom of speech and belief on which the Jewish Congress was organized.

We hate to believe that the time has come even within the Zionist movement when there is no longer room for difference of opinion, and when those who believe contrary to the majority are denied the opportunity for such expression of their opinions as they deem necessary. Are those who are not out and out "party people" to be excommunicated from the ranks? This was not the case at Carlsbad, and we trust there never will be reason or cause to suspect that freedom of speech or belief has been curtailed on any Jewish platform or movement, be it religious, Zionistic, educational, philanthropical or fraternal in character. Freedom of speech and freedom of belief is one of the choicest and most highly prized rights a Jew possesses. It has been preached by Judaism and in Judaism as a cardinal doctrine. For the free exercise of this freedom the Jew insisted these 2,000 years. We are certainly not ready to give it up at this late date even for the sake of Mr. Untermyer.

Mr. Untermyer, in resigning from the Jewish Congress for the reason that it gave Israel Zangwill a free platform for the free and frank expression of his honest opinions, has done Mr. Zangwill and the Jewish Congress an injustice which, after cool deliberation, we trust he will rectify. He has misunderstood his office in the Zionist organization and placed it in a bad light before the world.

(From the Literary Review of the New York Evening Post)

"What a mincing, mealy-mouthed generation we are getting to be! That honest blurting of likes and dislikes which crusty, fusty Christopher North used to practice was better than the bowing and scraping of modern literary conversation. 'I'm ashamed to say I haven't read your book but, of course, I shall'—meaning 'I wouldn't read ten pages of it at a dollar a page!' 'I'm ashamed to say I did not see Dr. Bumfum's article on Esoteric Somnambulism'—meaning, 'You dry-brained, tiresome highbrow, do you think I care about the kind of articles you like?' 'I'm ashamed to say I'm not much of a reader'—meaning 'I'm proud to say I'm a successful business man [or a beautiful woman, if that is the sex] and don't have to be well read in order to attract attention.' All this hypocritical politeness and false modesty about books and reading makes one long for some of those straightforward animals in Dickens and Thackeray who went about asking of a man 'How much is he worth?'

"The purring, patronizing book chatter between articles on 'The Well-Dressed Man' and 'How to Make a Small House Seem Big' has a good deal to do with it. Reading this gives the impression that talk about books is number three in the list of social etiquette, and to be conducted like conversational openings at a formal dinner. If you haven't read what you are told to read, the writers imply, you ought to be ashamed. But being ashamed is all that is really asked of you. While it is most important for you to know what on dit (horrid phrase!) no one expects you to bother with the tiresome books!

"The advertisements, too, prod us into uniformity. Every one must like every book or differ with excellent authorities, to confirm which follows a quotation which usually is perfectly superlative and almost meaningless. A novel is 'in its high lights upon life and its superb management of contrast and innuendo a colorful masterpiece of the most modern school.' As this means nothing, it is naturally impressive; and so, if any one asks about the book, we reply: 'I am ashamed to say I have not read it.' As for So-and-So's 'Outline of What a Young Girl Ought to Know,' it is 'a really beautiful book, witty where wit is required, touching also. It will be a treat to many readers, and a lasting credit to American literature.' Center City Argus.' 'A great outline.'—Yukon Times.' Here are two witnesses, so again 'I'm ashamed to say——'

"Of course, no one ever is ashamed when they say so. If they knew real shame they would keep quiet. But this backhanded cautiousness is getting to be an American trait. We are afraid of the herd, of what some one says is public opinion. If not overcautious, we are boastful. What these very modest people who say they are ashamed often suffer from is not deference but snobbery. 'I'm ashamed to say I haven't read "Babbitt" [or "Black Oxen" or "If Winter Comes"]—meaning 'My taste is a superior one. I never read what the bourgeois find agreeable.' 'I'm ashamed to say that much of this modern literature puzzles me. It's so flippant and vulgar' meaning only, 'You are to understand that I am not a common person.'

"It would be interesting to know what men and women really are ashamed of nowadays. A little honest confession would do us all good, and would read surprisingly unlike most literary conversations. Perhaps the world knows only two classes in this respect, those who are ashamed of their faults, and those who are ashamed of their virtues, or, to put it differently, those who know themselves and those who do not. No wonder so much bunkum, hypocrisy, illusion, and delusion works into all discussion of books—which are rich themselves in the same commodities."

For the first time in fourteen years Sinai Temple in Chicago recently had a Shabbas morning service conducted by Rabbi Louis Mann, successor to Dr. Emil G. Hirsch. Dr. Hirsch abolished the Saturday morning service probably because it was poorly attended, and its re-institution by Rabbi Mann would seem to indicate that his flock demands more religious services; but we doubt it, and are inclined to believe the incident of no importance as being a sign of return to shul. We suspect that it is more for visitors from out of town who don't go to synagogue at home but want to attend service at least once in one of the best-known temples in the country.

In Helena, Arkansas, a small congregation in a small city, Rabbi Joseph Leiser has begun to hold services Sunday mornings instead of Saturday mornings as the result of a majority vote in the congregation. This service includes children as well as adults and gains attendance from those who either couldn't or didn't come on Friday evenings. Considering the degree to which Americans don't close up shop on Saturday, this new plan seems a sensible one with the Helena congregation recognizing that Sabbath observance is for the good of the people instead of the people for the good of observance.

A successful general meeting of the Winnipeg Chapter of Hadassah was held Tuesday evening, October 30, at the Zionist Headquarters. The president, Mrs. H. E. Wilder, occupied the chair. A special feature of the meeting was the contents of a letter received by Mrs. Wilder from Miss Sophia Berger, director of the Palestine Orphan Committee. In it she stated that the $700 that the Chapter sent in aid of the orphans last year was kept by the authorities until other money could be added to it. Finally, quite a sum of money was accumulated and it was decided to build an orphanage in the rural district of Palestine. Hearing of their plans, Baron de Rothschild donated seventy-five dunam of land, which had

is on; that was donated, is called Meyer Chseye. Water works were installed through the efforts of Baron de Rothschild and he also had the main road repaired, which joins the neighboring colony of Zickron Jacob to Meyer Chseye. With the money on hand the authorities had three of the buildings put in good condition for living purposes in which ninety girls will live. These girls will be taught farming in its phases suited to female capabilities, also sewing, cooking and fine arts. One of the buildings will be made into a school to contain five rooms and vestibule. Plans have also been drawn up to have this building contain a natural museum and auditorium. The repairs for the school will cost the sum of $1,250 and Miss Berger asks on behalf of the Palestine Orphan Committee that the Winnipeg Chapter of Hadassah give the difference between the $700 previously sent, and the $1,250 and have the school dedicated to the Chapter, to be known as the Winnipeg Chapter of Hadassah School. It was also stated that up to the present time there has been no school accommodation for the children of the surrounding district, the result being that if this school is erected it will be the means of giving all the children of the surrounding country as well as the orphans a proper school education. The facts were dealt with at the meeting and it was unanimously agreed to raise money immediately for the school, and with this end in view a concert is being arranged by the Chapter to take place Sunday evening, December 2, at the Metropolitan Theatre, for which excellent talent will be procured. Plans are also under way for the Chanukah Geld Tag Day which will take place, Sunday, December 9. The proceeds will also go towards the welfare work for the orphans in Palestine. Mrs. B. Sokolovsky, was appointed to secure the talent for the above-mentioned concert. Mrs. Stockhammer, Mrs. Schlass, Mrs. Chercov and Mrs. Wilder will look after the distribution and selling of tickets and Mrs. Sair, Mrs. Rusen and Mrs. Schlass will undertake to solicit advertising for the programme. Mrs. Slutzsky and Mrs. Shulman were appointed to handle the arrangements for the Tag Day. A quantity of finished sewing was collected at this meeting which had previously been distributed among the members to be made into garments for the needy in Palestine. Fees from the membership drive which is under way at present were collected, and reports are coming in very favorably. An informal discussion regarding plans for a Yarid, which will be held around Purim time, was also indulged in.

The last meeting of the Winnipeg Lodge of the Independent Order of Bnai Brith was one of the most successful yet held. The steady increase in the attendance at Lodge meetings is a sure sign of the revived interest in the affairs of the lodge. Professor W. T. Allison of the University of Manitoba was the speaker for the intellectual hour and contributed a masterly address on "The High Explosives of Life."

By unanimous resolution, after a long discussion, the Lodge decided to take under its control the Y.M.H.A., which has been struggling of late. N. J. Weidman and L. Rice are specially charged with the superintendence of the management of the Y.M.H.A. They will form a larger committee of business men to aid in this work. The members of the I.O.B.B. executive have personally guaranteed the running expenses for the first few months. This, it is hoped, will prove a satisfactory solution of what has been for some time past a difficult problem.

The children of the Shaarey Zedek Sunday School were greatly elated last week when the eagerly expected Golden Book Certificate for $100 in the name of the Sunday School was presented to them. This was a subscription from the Tithe Fund last year, in addition to $50 to the Keren Hayesod. This year the Tithe Fund has already contributed $20 for the purchase of one dunam of land in Palestine.

JEWISH FINANCE MINISTER AROUSES HITLER'S IRE

Munich (J.T.A.).—A proposal that the German Reichs Bank be boycotted as a protest against Dr. Hilferding, the Jewish Socialist who is Finance Minister in Stresemann's cabinet, is made in Hitler's organ of the Bavarian Fascisti, the "Volkische Beobachter."

The paper declares Hilferding's appointment, including as one of its duties of office the supervision of the Reichs Bank, is but another step towards "the enslavement of the German masses by the united Jews."

SOVIET WELCOMES FOREIGN AID IN RUSSIA

Paris (J.T.A.).—Mr. Grinberg, representative of the Jewish World Relief Conference, has received a letter from M. Lander, representative of the Soviet government, for affairs relating to the Foreign Relief organizations, in which he writes:

"There should be no doubt whatever about the question that Russia is in need of assistance. I must emphasize that notwithstanding that the government is now liquidating the committee for combatting the effects of the famine, the country has by no means recovered from the famine and economic depreciation. The government is taking heroic measures to heal the wounds of the country, but the want is so great, that the means at the State's disposal can in no way suffice, and we welcome therefore the foreign organizations who are coming to our aid."

M. Lander stresses in particular the need of restoring the possibilities of agricultural work in Russia, of securing homes for the vast number of waifs and strays, and of providing medical aid for the population.

About forty interested people attended the first meeting of the Monday Club, which met in the Synagogue Chambers on Monday evening, November 5. Rabbi Brickner is the leader of this Club. The subject of the discussion at the meeting was, "Has the modern sex literature any elements of value to permanency, and is the movement to suppress it by censorship a good movement?" Most of those attending the meeting participated in the discussion. Refreshments were served by the ladies at the conclusion of the meeting. The next meeting of the Club will take place on Monday evening, November 26, to discuss H. G. Wells' book, "Men Like Gods," and the outstanding current events of the month. The meetings are usually informal in character and those genuinely interested in spending an evening discussing some good book and current events are invited to attend.

The first number on the program was a violin solo, "Minuet," Paderewski-Krushler, by Mr. Maurice Solway, accompanied by Miss Naomi Granatstein. Windsor

PRIMROSE CLUB

The need for a social centre in Windsor has long been deplored, and much interest and enthusiasm is now being felt in the newly formed Primrose Club, 415 Ouellette Avenue (opposite the new Prince Edward Hotel).

The Club ranks favourably among the private clubs of the city. The rooms are luxuriantly and comfortably furnished.

The lounge hall is inviting with its sofas and chairs giving ease and comfort. The billiard room is well-lighted, and the library, when completed, will contain a number of valuable volumes. The Primrose Club will in all probability become the rendezvous of the many social gatherings. An excellent programme for the winter season is being arranged.

The membership of the Club are largely those prominent in the social and communal life of the city. The Club owes its existence to Mr. Nathan Rotenberg, and his able assistants, Messrs. Ben Brody, R. G. Cohen, S. K. Baum, Jack Gelber, Max Schott and D. Meretsky. Mr. Max Schott is secretary-treasurer pro tempore. The official opening of the club will be announced shortly.

"Save the Federation" and Federation Notes

BY S. B. KAUFMAN

The Federation of Montreal is saved but our Federation is in a most critical situation. A "Save the Federation" campaign is now being arranged. We have all the faith that Toronto Jewry will follow the beautiful example set by Montreal. We have the utmost confidence that everyone will respond when the final test comes. The widow, orphan, sick, aged and our needy families will not be permitted to suffer in our midst. We cannot emphasize too strongly that our Federation cannot function under its present income, hence, the "Save the Federation" campaign. What will you do to be one of the saviours? Will you be one of the volunteers?

Rivka says: "The only way to save our Federation is to move it to Montreal, Mr. Kaufman." No, Madame Rivka, our Federation will be saved right here.

Shall the poor starve? We frequently get reports that Mr. A. or Mr. B. will not subscribe to the Federation because of petty excuses. Those who will make the poor suffer for their personal prejudices are narrow-minded. The Federation is a democratic organization. The trustees, president, director and all other officials are elected by the people through their representatives and when in office they should have the moral and financial support of the entire community. Without this support they are helpless.

The International Conference of Jewish Social Service will be held in our city, June 21, 22, 23 and 24. We expect about five hundred delegates—the leading social workers and philanthropists of the United States and Canada.

The National Conference of Social Work, which is non-sectarian and international in its scope, meets immediately after the Jewish conference. This conference will bring here about five thousand delegates, some of them the most distinguished leaders in social reform throughout the world.

MISCHA GERMAN TO GIVE ARTS COURSE

A Yiddish dramatic arts course is being organized in Toronto under the direction of Mischa German of the Standard Theatre. All these subjects will be handled by very competent instructors. It will be Mr. German's endeavor to stage plays from time to time in which the pupils will take part.

The first lecture will be given by Mr. German on Thursday evening, November 15th, at 8 p.m., at the Community House, 44 St. George Street. The course may be taken in part or completely by all those who have an interest in Yiddish drama. Registration at 332 Spadina Ave.

WEDDINGS

Beth Jacob Synagogue was the scene of a very pretty wedding last week, when Sarah, daughter of Mrs. Annie Swartz, became the bride of Mr. Saul Silverberg, Toronto. The bride, who was given away by her brother, looked charming in an ivory georgette gown trimmed with pearls. Her veil was arranged in coronet style with rhinestones and pearls, and she carried a shower of white roses and lilies-of-the-valley. She was attended by her sister Rose, as maid of honor, and the Misses Rose Pearlman, Minnie Taube and Fannie Silverman as bridesmaids, who were all charmingly dressed and carrying bouquets of Ophelia roses. The groom was attended by Mr. J. W. Brown, as best man, and the Messrs. Harry Swartz, Harold Swartz and Max Stein acted as groomsmen. Little Misses Helen and Eileen Swartz, nieces of the bride, were flower girls and were prettily dressed in pink and blue and carried baskets of sweetheart roses. Little Laura Lavine was rain bearer. After the ceremony the reception and dance was held in the hall, where Mrs. Swartz, gowned in black charmeuse, trimmed with French beads and wearing a corsage bouquet of sweetheart roses, and Mrs. Silverberg, mother of the groom, attired in a black brocaded velvet gown with a corsage bouquet of sweetheart roses, received the guests. ZANGWILL BRANDS AS UNTRUE LIPSKY'S STATEMENT ON PALESTINE RESOLUTION

Zionist Organization Chairman Insists Author's Views Were Rejected

New York (J.T.A.)—Israel Zangwill in a statement to the Jewish Telegraphic Agency has characterized as untrue the assertion by Louis Lipsky, Chairman of the Zionist Organization of America, that "nothing said by Mr. Zangwill in his address or in private was considered by either the Congress or any of its committees."

Mr. Lipsky in denying Mr. Zangwill's claim that the resolution of the American Jewish Congress expressed Mr. Zangwill's views on Palestine called attention to the fact that Mr. Zangwill's suggestion for a solution of the Arab question embodied in his Carnegie Hall speech and by him submitted to the committee drafting the Palestine resolution were "specifically and unanimously rejected."

In support of his contention that the resolution as finally adopted by the Congress was his, Mr. Zangwill has furnished the Jewish Telegraphic Agency with a copy of the resolution as originally drafted by him. This resolution is the one adopted by the Jewish Congress, with a few exceptions. The last part of the second paragraph which Mr. Zangwill proposed, but the committee rejected, reads as follows:

"And taking note finally of the address of Mr. Zangwill, pointing out that by the conditions of the Balfour Declaration and Mandate, the Arabs of Palestine are justified in demanding a free parliamentary constitution, the only objection to which is that it might be used to nullify the primary purpose of the Balfour Declaration and the British Mandate, which requires the Mandatory to establish a Jewish National Homeland in Palestine."

The Congress resolution omits also another part of Mr. Zangwill's draft resolution asking to

"grant Palestine the parliamentary constitution desired by the Arabs, subject only to the veto of the British Governor upon all anti-immigration or any other legislation calculated to destroy the creation of the Jewish National Home."

The final clause of the resolution as adopted by the Jewish Congress is textually at variance with the one proposed by Mr. Zangwill, the resolution omitting Mr. Zangwill's proposed reference to the Holy Land as the place where Jesus and Mary lived their earthly lives "as members of the Jewish people, and that Jews and Moslems revere in common the memory of Moses."

Mr. Zangwill challenges Mr. Lipsky or other members of the committee to produce the original resolution prepared before he, Mr. Zangwill, joined the resolutions committee in its labours. Mr. Zangwill says he found the committee's draft to be "incompetent."

The issue between the two appears to be not Mr. Zangwill's authorship of the resolution, which Mr. Lipsky does not contest, but to what extent the resolution as finally adopted by the Congress expresses Mr. Zangwill's views.

Mr. Lipsky claims that in rejecting the concession to the Arabs the Congress rejected Mr. Zangwill's views, whereas Mr. Zangwill insists that in accepting all of his resolution, with the exception of the Arab clauses, the Congress showed it was won over to his views.

ZIONISTS FELICITATE BALFOUR, LLOYD GEORGE ON DECORATION DAY

New York (J.T.A.)—The Sixth Anniversary of the publication of the Balfour Declaration, on November 2, 1917, was celebrated this afternoon by leading Zionist workers, the guests at a luncheon at the Commodore Hotel, tendered by the American Zion Commonwealth. A cable message to Lord Balfour and a resolution of gratitude to Mr. Lloyd George on the eve of his return to England, were sent off following toasts to both.

In addition to celebrating the Balfour Declaration anniversary, the gathering celebrated the dedication by Sir Herbert Samuel of the Colony Balfouria founded by the Zion Commonwealth and named in honour of the author of the Declaration.

Bernard A. Rosenblatt, founded of the Commonwealth, presided. Speakers included: S. J. Weinstein, president of the organization, Emanuel Neumann, Jacob Fishman, Miss Henrietta Szold, Rabbi Meyer Berlin, Leon Zolotkoff and Judge Aaron J. Levy.

The cable message to Lord Balfour is as follows:

"American Zionists gathered to celebrate sixth Balfour Day and dedication by Sir Herbert Samuel of Colony Balfouria in Galilee named in your honour send heartfelt greetings to author of immortal Balfour Declaration."

The resolution to be presented to Lloyd George before his departure to England follows:

"This gathering of representatives of American Zionism assembled to celebrate the sixth anniversary of the Balfour Declaration and the dedication by Sir Herbert Samuel of the Colony Balfouria in Palestine named in honour of Lord Balfour rejoice in the fact that the same day marks the presence in our city of the peerless British statesman who was the head of the government which issued the Balfour Declaration, the Magna Charta of the revived Jewish nation in Palestine. The Editor,
CANADIAN JEWISH REVIEW:

I take advantage of the impartiality of the REVIEW to comment on last week's editorial in your valuable paper, entitled "Kosher and Trepha."

In the article in question the contributing editor accuses "the orthodox rabbi of recent residence" for issuing a kosher certificate to a beef manufacturing company of this city, whilst other two local rabbis deny the kashruth of the place.

May I ask you, in the first place, if the author of the article has taken the trouble to thoroughly investigate the matter before making his statements? For it may be seen from the vagueness in which the article is written that no such investigation had been made.

On the other hand, does not everybody realize that each rabbi is entitled to give a certificate of "Kashruth" as long as the article manufactured is under his strict supervision? And especially when it is the case with a rabbi whose Talmudical authority is undoubted and who had held rabbinical positions in several of the greatest Jewish communities in Poland and Russia.

My opinion is, therefore, that the affair discussed in last week's editorial needs illumination.

Respectfully yours,
D. ELSON,
94 D'Arcy Street.

CATHOLIC SEES JEWISH CENTRE AS CRIME DETERRENT

Washington (J.T.A.)—Guests at the dinner last night opening the Jewish Community Centre campaign received something of a jolt from Frank Hogan, one of the speakers who is a prominent Catholic lawyer. He contributed a $1,000 towards the building fund, in addition to what was accepted by most of the guests as sound advice.

Urging the Community Centre as a best means of stemming the "dangerous tendency towards crime" among Jews, Mr. Hogan asserted there was a considerable increase of crime and delinquency among Jews. Thirty or forty years ago, he declared, there was scarcely a Jewish prisoner at the bar, no gangsters, delinquents or prostitutes. To-day, he said, there is an alarming and ever-growing percentage of crime among Jews.

More than half of the quarter of a million dollar quota was raised at the dinner. Felix Warburg, banker and philanthropist, of New York, gave $3,000. Mabel Boardman, founder of the Red Cross contributed $500.

The emphasis placed by Mr. Hogan on the importance of a Jewish Community Centre at the national capital is believed by many to have largely assisted toward the success of the campaign.

EXPELLED JEWS MUST LEAVE PROPERTY IN BAVARIA

Munich (J.T.A.)—As a means of adding privation to indignity, an order has been issued by Dictator Von Kahr to the Jews expelled from Bavaria, that their property must not be removed from the country.

Jewish business men and manufacturers have received orders from the police authorities that the machinery and equipment of their factories as well as their products must remain in Bavaria, and their factories must be conducted in their absence by managers appointed for the purpose. An attempt to take any of their property along will result in the sequestration and sale of the establishments for the benefit of the Bavarian State Treasury, the owners are warned.

Protests against the expulsion and demands for the publication of the secret order exiling the Jews from Bavaria, may, it is hoped in some quarters, lead to a mitigation of the expulsion decree. The fact that the illegality of the expulsion of the alleged aliens is being questioned may give those that have not yet been exiled a chance of appeal against the order.

Synagogue at their regular monthly meetings.

At each of the meetings Mr. Fox alluded to the fact that although the Jewish citizens of Ottawa composed one of the largest bodies of taxpayers in the city and had over 700 children attending the public schools in By Ward alone, they were without a single representative on any of the municipal bodies and that it was time for them to get together and elect a man.

Mr. Fox also spoke before a large meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Ottawa Talmud Torah, held in the Talmud Torah Building last Sunday evening. He was introduced by Mrs. A. J. Freiman, who presided.

Mr. Harold Fisher, M.L.A., Addresses Y.M.H.A.

"What we need more than anything else in order to build up a great Canadian people, is tolerance," said Mr. Harold Fisher, M.L.A., in an address which he gave in the King Edward Avenue Institute on Sunday evening, before a large gathering of the Jewish residents of Ottawa, under the auspices of the Y.M.H.A.

Mr. Fisher spoke on "Jewish Citizenship" and referred to the religious prejudice which undoubtedly Jews had found confronting them, which he characterized as decidedly unchristian.

NOTED JEWISH SURGEON DIES IN BERLIN

Berlin (J.T.A.)—Professor Ferdinand Karewski, famous surgeon and director of the Jewish Hospital, is dead here of heart disease.

BAPTIST SAYS JEWISH PRAYERS ARE SELFISH

New York (J.T.A.)—The Rev. Frederick B. Taylor, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Indianapolis, and a former president of the Northern Baptist Convention, criticized the Jews yesterday for "praying only for the interest of their race." He spoke at the Baptist Bible Missionary conference at the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church. He said:

"God wanted the Jewish race to enrich the world, but instead it shut itself in. The Zionist movement will succeed only if it has for its purpose the fulfillment of the original mission

Anti-Semites Spreading Rapidly in Germany

Berlin (Special).—Several hundred Jews were dragged from their homes in Grenadierstrasse and cruelly beaten by a mob of unemployed and poorly paid workers to-day when a crowd, angered by the bread and food prices, went into this quarter, peopled by speculators and small merchants and exchange brokers, to get revenge.

While the shupo looked on, the workers systematically plundered the food shops and went into private flats and dragged old couples into the streets and beat them with their fists, clubs and whips.

The shupo finally interfered and arrested all the Polish Jews they could reach to save them from more serious injury. Among the mob were many woman. Three set upon an old Jewish merchant and lacerated his face with their finger nails, while calling down curses on his head for the sufferings of Germany's poor.

Later, between 12 and 1 o'clock several hundred unemployed appeared before the bourse and attempted to storm it. "Bread at 140,000,000,000 marks," they cried. "You dirty schiebers who are responsible can give us money to buy." The police finally drove them off.

Two Americans had their overcoats and passports and money taken by the mob. Automobiles were overturned and their occupants seriously beaten. Wealthy Germans in motor cars en route to the country lost heavy fur coats, motoring togs and pocketbooks.

Laughable scenes mingled with the tragic in the Jewish quarter. German Jews were protected and untouched and only the Poles were attacked. One man was seen to come out of a flat building with half a loaf of bread in one hand and a live goose, squirming and flapping its wings and scolding, in the other. A young girl, evidently a typist, appeared from another flat with a fresh cut of beefsteak, which disappeared into her handbag. When she saw she was observed she cried: "Well, it is the first meat I have seen in a week." This girl had weighed the theft with her conscience, but she was desperate from hunger. The Berlin poor blame the Polish Jews and other foreign elements for their troubles.

Several Jewish exchange brokers were stripped of their clothes by the crowd while the police laughed. One old man was left with only his socks and undershirt.

Monday's riots, which continued last night and to-day, really Germany's first pogrom, possess a clear political importance. They indicate a spread of anti-Semitism among the working classes.

Although anti-Semitic agitators certainly were among the crowds, which beat persons of Jewish appearance, plundered their homes and seized their clothing, leaving them entirely or almost naked in the streets, this action also had a spontaneous element.

The unemployed, who were chiefly concerned in the rioting, were paid a dole for the first time Friday in the new dollar loan fractional currency. Emerging from unemployment headquarters, they found a horde of money changers offering large sums of paper marks for the unfamiliar notes. Many of them exchanged their dollar loan notes for marks. Then, over the week end, the price of bread went up sixfold and the unemployed discovered that their week's dole, exchanged into marks, was insufficient to buy even one loaf of bread, which had attained a price in real money of 35 cents a loaf.

The plundering of homes was their attempt to regain the money, which they felt had been taken from them by trick. In the heated imaginations of the hungry, the belief is growing that all speculators are Jews, from which they easily arrive at the belief that all Jews are speculators.

This spreading of anti-Semitism to North Germany is deliberate. The reactionaries need a popular pretext that they were saving Germany from bolshevism, but this has evaporated. No serious person takes seriously the danger of a bolsheviki revolution at this time. Hence, the reactionaries [illegible] anti-Semitism as a popular issue.
